Tribeca Investment Partners Appoints Angus Wright as Head of Research

Angus Wright, Head of Research

SYDNEY [9 August 2022] - Australian fund manager Tribeca Investment Partners has promoted Angus Wright to the position of Head of Research. In this newly created role Wright will oversee Tribeca's investment research process providing key investment ideas and insights to portfolio managers across the firm's Australian equities and global natural resources strategies, as well as providing leadership and mentorship to the recently expanded analyst team. Wright, a seasoned analyst with international experience in research and portfolio management roles at several boutique fund managers in Sydney and London, joined Tribeca in 2019 in a senior research role.

The appointment comes as Tribeca has experienced asset growth across its long-running Australian equities strategies including the Alpha Plus Australian Equities Long Short Strategy managed by Jun Bei Liu and Australian Smaller Companies Strategy managed by David Aylward and Simon Brown. To support this growth, the firm has strengthened its research team, making several hires in its Sydney office this year.

In discussing the appointment, Tribeca Founder and Executive Chairman, David Aylward commented: "Being an owner-operated firm, Tribeca has a true investment-driven, as opposed to product-driven culture and its shows in the track record that the firm has built over 24 years. Under Angus' leadership we believe the rigor and quality of our investment process will continue to provide a strong basis for outperformance in the years ahead".
